Mentorship– Straight Ahead! By Nancy Brown

This isn't really an article about me or a way for me to tell you my story, but then again, yes, it is. Let me explain... I made the leap into the interpreting profession after having met a really nice and caring Deaf couple from my church. (Isn't that the same for many of you in my generation?) These people were so kind to me. I really wanted to learn ASL—I had no desire to become a "real" interpreter back then, I just wanted to be able to use sign language with the songs and on the drama team at church. Well, after several months of hanging out with the Deaf family, and after an unexpected opportunity in the interpreter's chair at church one night, I came to the realization that the interpreting profession is where I belong.

With a donation in hand from a kind-hearted anonymous benefactor, I walked into a newly developed training program in Huntsville where I had hoped to learn more sign language. The person at the desk talked with me for a few minutes and decided that I would be better off in the basics of interpreting class instead. I was terrified!! Yet, I learned so much in that short 8 weeks. That was almost 20 years ago, and to this day, I have a special place in my heart for that Deaf couple, the lady at the front desk, and the teacher of the interpreting class.

What's the point of this story, Nancy?

Those folks all served as my mentors without actually bearing the title. Eddie Boger, Teresa Boger Sheppard, Frances Smallwood, and Judy Labath all made major contributions to my career. Without mentors I wouldn't be where I am today. I have had so many unofficial mentors in my career: Belinda Montgomery, Nancy Hayes, Lin Fulton, Stacie Yarbrough, Harriett Hollingsworth, Ben Hollingsworth, Valerie Ball, Tammy Schrimsher, Pat Smartt, Ted Kotis, Karen Gunter, Jennifer Flagg, Amber Bahler. That's a just a very short list of some of the folks who have made eternal impacts on my life as an interpreter and without them, I wouldn't be here.

Who are your mentors? Have you experienced formal mentoring (formal or informal)? Think about it for minute...

"A lot of people have gone further than they thought they could, because someone else thought they could."

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

Greetings from Troy ITP!

We're at the end of yet another year and ready to celebrate the hard work of a special group of students. Each of them have grown in their own way and we take pride in knowing that they are entering the field with not only skill, but knowledge and heart that is indescribable. I, along with the faculty and staff at Troy University say, Congratulations Graduates on a job well done! With that said, their success would not be possible without the service and dedication of the mentors and others working in the field that are willing to give countless hours and encouragement. Words cannot express our gratitude for what you give so, THANK YOU!!!!

As we wrap up this year, I want to also update you on a few things:

First, we are sad to say that Ricky Rose is resigning from his full-time position on-campus to be with his family in Maryland. To say that he will be missed is an understatement. His desire and passion for teaching and the love of ASL has impacted this program greatly! He will continue to teach with us in an online capacity and will also continue to be involved with various ITP events. So, we don't say good-bye... we say, "until next time".

We held our AIM conference in March and it was a great success! Many of you were involved in some capacity so we thank you for your support in that event! The students are able to push their limits and learn so much from every session and also from interacting with professionals in the field.

Currently, students are gearing up to serve the Deaf community in many capacities over the summer. We are teaming with the Alabama Department of Rehabilitation Services to host a College Prep Camp – Camp Success – for students who are Deaf/Hard of Hearing and entering college settings in the fall. Many of our students will be volunteering at either the Troy camp or others around the state.

Additionally, we will have student representatives at various conferences this summer, including the AAD/COSDA conference. These are just a few of the places you will see our students this summer and if you have a need for any other events, please feel free to contact me and I will be glad to pass that information along.

Our program is growing and so is the need for faculty. We currently have two on-campus full time positions open. If you know of anyone seeking a full-time position either teaching ASL or ITP courses, please have them contact me and I can guide them to the application process.

In conclusion, we have some great things happening here in Troy and are excited about the future of the ITP. To those of you who support us in our efforts and contribute your time and energy to our students and program, well, you are simply awesome! We hope that everyone will continue to be involved with our program and students and allow us to serve the Deaf community to the best of our ability!

Sincerely,

Judy Robertson

All of us need mentors - no matter if we are already certified, not-yet certified, an ITP student, or an ASL student, or all of the above. Mentors serve as guides that lead us to the crest and show us the view. They don't tell us what to see, but simply get us there so that we can see what we see on our own. Mentors are people who help us get to where we are going. A lot of people have gone further than they thought they could because someone else thought they could.

Who was it for you that believed you could?

Perhaps you never experienced official or unofficial mentoring as an Interpreter or student. Did you know that Alabama has a great pool of Interpreting and ASL mentors? Several of ALRID's members have completed the Master Mentor training and are available to serve you. There are many more ALRID and AAD members who are highly skilled, knowledgeable, and professional, who are willing to serve as mentors.

Wouldn't you benefit from a relationship with someone who can provide knowledge, insight, support, guidance, and perhaps even assist to open doors for you?

Just as Daniel discovered with Mr. Myagi, mentoring doesn't have to be an expensive formal contractual relationship. All it takes is two people, a mentor and mentee, agreeing on what is desired and how it will be achieved.

Having a mentor can provide you with many advantages. "Mentoring is a brain to pick, an ear to listen, and a push in the right direction." - John Crosby. A mentor can help to shorten your learning curve, open your mind to new ideas and possibilities, identify opportunities and share advice on how to reach your goals for improving yourself.

Here are few reasons every interpreter, regardless of years of experience, age or specialty, needs mentoring:

A Trusted Confidant: A mentor is someone who serves as a trusted confidant over an extended period of time, usually free of charge or for a small fee. Why do they do this? First and foremost, it's a way of giving back to our community. A true mentoring relationship also works in both directions—the mentors learn about new ideas from you, just as you learn new perspectives from them.

Don't Fly Solo: In this profession we tend to fly solo. But we don't have to. Everybody needs a good, reliable sounding board, second opinion, and sometimes, just emotional support. In addition to skill development and growth, this is what mentoring is all about.

Been there, done that: Many mentors in our field really have "been there, done that." Learn from others' mistakes and successes. The mentors don't have to have experience in your particular area of growth. The mentors' role is to share with you lessons from their experience in the hopes that you can learn the lessons a bit more quickly and easily than they did.

A trusted, long-term relationship: Your mentor has no ulterior motive and no service or product to sell you. As the relationship develops over time, you will develop trust in your mentor. As a bonus, time with your mentor becomes more and more efficient as the mentor becomes more and more familiar with you, your style, and your goals.

As you can see, the rewards are many, and the risk is non-existent.

You have nothing to lose and everything to gain by finding a good mentor.
